LIVELY WEEK PROMISED FANS

Minor Leaguers and Federals Hold Big Meetings—Players Present Demands.

TO WAIT ON TENER

Pennsylvania's Governor May Be Offered National League Head This Week—Other Comment.

By WILLIAM FEET.

The present week promises to be unusually lively in baseball circles. Minor league managers from every section of the country are in Columbia, Ohio, for the annual convention. The players' fraternity has presented its demands to the national commission, and the Federal League again convenes.

The Washington Club will not be represented at the minor league assembly, but other American League managers plan to be on hand, in addition to several National League men.

The players' fraternity, through President David L. Fultz, hope to accomplish such in their demands for what they term fairer treatment, and the chances are that the national commission will meet some day this week to discuss these demands, or requests, as they may be styled.

The minor league managers are due for a lively session. It is claimed that the players' fraternity will offer to this body a different set of requests than those submitted to the major leaguers, as the fraternity has many grievances, claiming that the minor leaguers are even more unfair than the big fellows.

Next Saturday Indianapolis will be the scene of another meeting of the Federal League, at which session it is expected that a president will be elected, and possibly some announcement made of future plans for the coming season.

Up to date, the Federal Leaguers have made only veiled threats of invading the ranks of organized ball and carrying off the star players. Possibly some announcement will be made next Saturday as to just what the so-called outlaws propose to do.

Another important event looked forward to with considerable interest is the visit of a committee from the National League to wait upon Gov. Tener of Pennsylvania offering him the position of president of the organization.

An official of the Philadelphia National League Club gave out recently the following interview:

"The National League must get a man to effect Ben Johnson, of the American League."

Johnson's policies have made the American League such a big factor in baseball and proven so popular with the owners of this organization that the National's managers at last realize that they are being forced into the background. With a man like Gov. Tener at their head and all working together for a common purpose, such as is the case in the American League, it is believed that the National League can again get on the right track.

There has been a big change in the personnel of the National League in recent years. The warriors of the organization have either died or passed out of the league. Their successors are men who see that new methods are badly needed. Harpoon is now the watchword, whereas formerly the managers continually had knives sharpened for each other.

To comply with the health laws of Japan, all members of the baseball touring party must be vaccinated before sailing from Vancouver. This will be a great handicap to the players, as sore arms will prevent them from using much speed in slapping the cards down.

Head Coach Jones, of the Yale football team and a man noted for his silence upon things in the Yale football world, said at a meeting of the undergraduates recently:

"A great many people think that Yale will be beaten because they play the Yale games. I want to impress upon you that Yale will not be beaten until November 22, and then somebody else may be beaten."

"We have eleven fighters on our team, or I miss my guess. The fact that we were beaten recently will not discourage us. That game will not affect us. It is the championship game we are after. I don't mean to say that Colgate was not worth considering; on the other hand, they have a good team, and so have Harvard and Princeton with good teams, but we want Yale to be better."
